Hebrews 12:9-13

Literal Translation

Introduction

9) Moreover, we were having fathers of our flesh as correctors, and we were respecting them; Shall we not much more rather be in submission to the Father of spirits and live?

10) For on the one hand they were disciplining for a few days according to what seems good to them; but on the other hand, He for our benefit, in order that we might become partakers of His holiness.

Literal Translation (continued)

11) But on the one hand, all discipline does not seem to be of joy for the present, but of grief; but on the other hand, afterward it produces the peaceable fruit of righteousness to the ones having been exercised through it.

12) On account of which, straighten up the hands which have become weary and the knees which have become paralyzed;

13) and make straight paths for your feet, in order that the lame should not be turned out; but rather may be healed.
